BOULEVARD DE LA MER
SEA SIDE BOULEVARD

SAIN BRIEU, a city on the north west of France, chosen as the winner of "La Baie Contemporaine," competition of urbanism and architecture in 2005. The project of the bay, the idea of re-strengthening the pier, the project of the boulevard and the artificial water bodies, and the project of the public pedestrian path, are realized by the project of the island of BREST, the project of the port of BREST, and the project of the public pedestrian path. This project was the only one to be awarded "la baie contemporaine," competition of urbanism and architecture in 2005. The project of the boulevard and the artificial water bodies, and the project of the public pedestrian path, are realized by the project of the island of BREST, the project of the port of BREST, and the project of the public pedestrian path. This project was the only one to be awarded "la baie contemporaine."